Report. Entries – at 38 (one had to drop out) – were modest but six up on last year. Many thanks to Bob McGavin who brought a party of nine. It would be nice to break 50 again so I hope to see you next year. And some of your friends. All will be welcome.

Once again the weather was good. As soon as the early mist had been burnt off there was then bright warm sunshine until just after the last party finished when it started to rain. Good timing! The new route along the Wey South navigation was appreciated by those on the long route. They were also thankful that the llamas in the fields before Rudgwick were no longer in a spitting mood.

After a year off my youngest daughter, Fiona, was able to help and ran the taking of entries and operation of the Start in her usual efficient manner. Many thanks to her and also to all of the entrants for supporting the walk.
